Summary

As a software engineer who studied at Bethlehem University, I have a solid foundation in programming and software development. But I don't stop there - I have a passion for constantly learning new skills and taking courses in front-end development, such as React JS and back-end Laravel. By combining these skills, I am able to build projects that deliver smooth and effective solutions.

My ambition to improve my skills and keep pace with technology trends drives me to pursue new challenges and opportunities.
